

COLOR TRENDS FOR 2019

Living Coral is Pantone's Color of the Year!

Pantone© has always been at the forefront of color forecasting, and they are predicting a warm and vibrant 2019. Deep, rich & intense, the popular colors in 2019 are confident statement colors. Pantone predicts Living Coral, a playful salmon-pink, will soon be trending in art, decor & fashion; Behr Paints & Pittsburgh Paints think blues & greens will dominate.

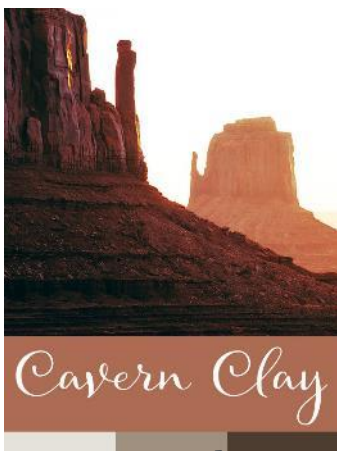

Color trends reflect the mood of the times. While living an increasingly digital life, people look for ways to energize themselves and connect with color on a personal level. Bold shades like Living Coral can make one feel more joyful and spirited - just think of the explosion of life and color found in our ocean's coral reefs - while cooler shades of blue and evergreen can feel calm and tranquil. Here are a few uses for these trendy hues...

Color Affects Mood

The color that surrounds you can dramatically influence your mood, so choose your decor colors carefully. Warm colors like reds & yellows can be stimulating and energetic....but can make some feel angry or anxious. Cool colors like blues & greens are calming and tranquil but may lead some to feel sad or tired. How do certain colors affect you and your moods?
